Sandra Bullock has chosen the most important man in her life — and it isn't rumored love Ryan Reynolds!

Sources close to Sandra, 46, and Ryan, 34, tell Life & Style the rumored couple are cooling their jets on potential romance because of Sandra's devotion to her one-year-old son Louis. "Louis has the stage. No one understands the shift in priorities about having a child in your life that you're responsible for until you have a child in your life," Sandra said.

Although the alleged couple has taken secret trips to Wyoming, partied together on New Year's Eve, and spent time together with Louis, she denies they are dating. "Ryan's not my lover," Sandra said at the Jan. 16 Golden Globes. "Louis is all I can handle."

Sandra might be more open to love if she hadn't been so burned by her cheating ex-husband Jesse James, 41. Relationship expert Carolyn Bushong told the magazine, "Even if Sandra met the man of her dreams today, it probably wouldn't work because I don't think she's healed enough. Now Sandra is probably being extra careful, and somewhat distrusting, in a healthy way."

We are sad this beautiful couple will not have a fairytale ending, but Sandra deserves credit for putting her child ahead of her love life!
