Miley BREAKS DOWN OVER LIAM

It's been eight months since the end of her engagement to Liam Hemsworth, but time certainly hasn't healed Miley Cyrus' wounds. During a May 9 appearance at London's G-A-Y nightclub, Miley, 21, unleashed an expletive-filled rant, clearly directed at her ex-fiancé, before performing her breakup anthem "Wrecking Ball." "Every time you get in your car, you're going to hear my f---ing song on the f---ing radio, you piece of s---," slammed Miley. Although she later denied Liam, 24, was her target, an insider disagrees — and blames him for Miley's erratic behavior and recent hospitalization. "Of course the rant was about Liam!" says a Miley source. "After the breakup, she went crazy, texting, calling and yelling at him. After that, he completely cut her off. She feels rejected and bitter. She seems to be returning to alcohol and drugs to mask the pain." Psychotherapist Carolyn Bushong, who hasn't treated the singer, tells Life & Style that Miley is ranting because "she's still in love with Liam. Women do that! They want to tell him to go f--- himself. They want to hurt him." Later, Bushong notes, women apologize — precisely what Miley did. The day after her rant, she tweeted, "I never want hurtful things being said about those I care about."

Miley's pals blame her breakdown on ex Liam. "Miley adored and loved Liam so much," says one, "and after he, "and after he moved on, she went crazy."
